For the Pomeroy Weekly Telegraph.
POMEROY, Aug. 30, '92.

Editor Telegraph:—In your last issue is a long communication from Wm. H. Remington, in which he endeavors to show that he had been wonderfully slandered, &c. As I am personally named in that article, I would ask the favor of making a short reply.

As one of the Committee appointed to solicit subscriptions to the Military Bounty Fund, for Salisbury Township, I called on Mr. R. After making my business known, he wanted to know what we proposed to do. I told him we wanted to raise an amount sufficient to pay at least twenty dollars to each man, and have a fund left from which their families might draw in case it was necessary; that we had already some fifteen hundred dollars subscribed, and were anxious to raise the amount to three thousand.

After making some excuses about having advanced money to sustain the Government, &c., he said we had already too much money subscribed, and if the men could not be had at the twenty dollars bounty, he was in favor of drafting, and would not give anything.

Now, sir, the old hypocrite comes out and would have the community think he was desperately abused by his name appearing in the list of subscribers as having "refused to give," and, as usual, makes a desperate effort to shield himself behind Democracy, and the cry of persecution, and thinks it very strange that so few names should appear as his own.

The only answer to that is, that there are but few of that kind of men in the township. A considerable number of the names on the list are Democrats, but not of Mr. Remington's kind.

Mr. R. says: "I replied to him that I had last year advanced a large amount to sustain the Government, and had now about fifteen hundred dollars due me yet, on which I expected to sustain a loss in amount exceeding any subscription on his list." Some of which were two hundred dollars.

Now do you suppose Mr. Remington will be able to make the people of Meigs County believe that if he has an honest debt of fifteen hundred dollars against the Government (of which I would want better proof than merely his word) that he would have to sustain a loss of over two hundred dollars in order to get his money? The thing shows plain on its face that there is a good deal of "bogu" about the claim, or else the man has but little confidence in the Government (he would have you believe) he has made so much sacrifice to sustain.

Further, he says: "I presume that the object in view is to divert trade from me." Well, that must be a joke. The idea of diverting trade from a man that has the well-earned reputation of being the "greatest woman's man in town," together with his honest stock of goods, comprising, in style, the shoes worn by Moses in the wilderness, and hats, bonnets, &c., running down to within fifteen years of the present time, is perfectly absurd. But, suppose a man was foolish enough to attempt the like. It would be desperately mean, judging from the assessors' returns for the last few years, of the small amount of capital employed. I think that any man who would stoop to so little a thing would steal mortified skulls.

CAMP MARIETTA,
Capt. Golden's Barracks, Aug. 27.

Dear Editor:—I am happy to be able to find time to write you a short epistle from our company and encampment. We have a very pleasant Camp, situated about a mile above Marietta, in the beautiful valley of the Muskingum. We are having a very agreeable time in Camp, and were heartily received by the 22d, and Capt. Keyes' Co., who were in Camp a few days previous to our coming in. We are under obligations to them for the brotherly feeling manifested on our arrival.

Capt. Golden has a Company of sober, honest, civil, good-hearted men; just such men as will cultivate good morals and sociability wherever they are.

The Capt. is a popular officer throughout the whole Camp, and is highly esteemed by his men. Lieut. Carr and Cobb are well calculated to fill the offices to which they are appointed. I don't think the Military Committee of Meigs County could have selected three men more appropriate for the business than the ones named.

We found Capt. Cooper's Company all in good heart, and enjoying good health; but we were not permitted to visit them long, in consequence of their leaving to guard and repair some railroad bridges, on the Marietta & Cincinnati R.R.—About two hundred men are out on the same business.

Last night we were recruited by an Athens Company, and to-day by three hundred and thirty men from Monroe County. Our force is now about 1,800 strong. And a more jovial set of boys cannot be found.

Please excuse shortness and imperfection of this letter, as I am writing across my knee.

Yours, very respectfully,
LONGSTRETH.

A tribute of respect to the memory of Fritz Schreiner, who was accidentally killed in Eastern Virginia.

In justice to the memory of our devoted comrade who came to us untimely an end, I have taken my pen in my hand, and may that inspiring genius, given by a talented mind, guidemy pen to do him ample justice. He left this place in the company gotten up by Captain Hess, for the First Virginia Cavalry. The duties of his position as a soldier he filled with great ability and promptitude, and up to the time of his disease was greatly respected by his company. Possessed of a giant mind, and a brave heart, he was a man whose loss is deeply felt by the company to which he belonged. After he had received the fatal wound, which caused his death in a very short time, (thirty minutes) he bade his comrades all farewell, and never will the touching words he spoke while the chill damp of death was on his brow, be forgotten by the writer.—The power with which he prayed God to pardon his past faults could not but touch the most stony heart. And when his spirit forsook him and took its flight to the endless bounds of eternity, he sunk to rest calmly and without a struggle. And while his breath enabled him to utter a single sentence, he spoke of his fast approaching dissolution with calmness. And may his soul be resting in peace, the most devoted prayer of the writer of this imperfect tribute of respect to so worthy a man and gallant soldier.

Soldiers of Hess's company, First Virginia Cavalry, whenever any of you pass the grave of your gallant comrade, drop a tear to his memory.

RUTLAND, Aug. 25th, 1862.

Editor Telegraph:—The ladies of Rutland, having been, since May twenty-eight, laboring vigorously for the purpose of contributing their mite to add comfort to the multitude of suffering patriots in our vast army, would submit the success of the Soldiers' Aid Circle to the public, through your columns.

Three boxes have been acknowledged by the Cincinnati Sanitary Commission, in which were the following articles: Shirts, 40; drawers, 21 p's; sheets, 21; pillows, 23; pillow cases, 16 p's; pants, 5 p's; coats, 1; towels, 76; handkerchiefs, 12; socks, 7 p's; slippers, 2 p's; cushions for wounded limbs, 104; rolls bandages, 132; compresses, 11 rolls; lint, 8 lbs; dried fruit, 94 lbs; dried corn, 1 sack; dried beef, 2 lbs; mustard seed, 4 sacks.

Contributions to the Society, in money, has been something over sixty dollars, the greater part of which has been expended in muslin and cash. A fourth box will, very soon, be in readiness for shipping.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 27th, 1862.

At a regular meeting of the Mineral Division No. 49, Sons of Temperance, of this place, last night, a Committee of the Sons, duly appointed for the purpose, reported the following preamble and resolutions, which were received and adopted:

WHEREAS, Our late brother, Abram Bates, a volunteer in the army of the Potomac, was wounded in the late battle before Richmond, and carried a prisoner to that city, where he died, therefore

Resolved, "That in his death, our Division, has lost a worthy and exemplary brother, his parents an affectionate son, and his country a brave and devoted soldier."

Resolved, "That as a Division, and as individuals, we tender the afflicted parents of the deceased our heartfelt sympathies and best wishes under their deep and painful bereavement."

Resolved, "That copies of these resolutions be furnished to the bereaved parents, and also to the Pomeroy Telegraph, with a request that they publish the same."

Mr. Editor:—It is the habit with some, now in the United States service, to inform their friends and relatives of their whereabouts and their doings, and to praise those who deserve praising, through the medium of the press.—Much has been said about the Ohio boys, who are in different parts of the country, engaged in putting down this wicked rebellion. And, though the columns of the Telegraph, teem with communications, lauding the gallantry of the bold Ohio lads, I have seen nothing in regard to the brave boys, who compose the 2nd Reg't, Va. Cavalry. This Regiment consists of men raised in Ohio, with the exceptions of about 50; who are Virginians. Company "I" was raised in Meigs and adjoining counties; and notwithstanding their appellation, never did true Buckeye blood course through the veins of man. Do you wonder, then, Mr. Editor, that we should feel solicitous about seeing our Regiment fully represented in your columns? I dare say, that truer, nor braver troops, never shouldered arms, nor drew sabers. Many an aged parent may be proud to acknowledge a son, in the brave and dashing 2nd Va. Cavalry. They have performed exploits almost incredible. They dart upon the enemy when he dreams them far away. And by rapid night marches, they steal upon the unsuspecting foe, and ere he is aware of it, like a transient meteor, dash into the camps, execute their purpose, and are gone again. They have shown themselves to be true and efficient soldiers in every conflict in which they have been engaged, although at times, against four times their number. Our favorite, Major R. L. Curtis, is now with us, and should the rebel Major Bailey undertake the repetition of the game he played on the 9th Va. Vol. Infantry, under Col. Starr, he will find, to his sorrow, that a brave and efficient soldier opposes him.

Yours, old serv't.

Serg't E. A. ROSSER,

Com. I, 2nd Va. Cavalry.

RUTLAND, O., Aug. 29, 1862.

Editor Telegraph:—During the temporary illness of yourself, it is possible a little assistance from a rustic, to your editorial labors, would be appreciated; and, being affected a little with a complaint known among the literati as "cacochiles scribendi," I propose to itemize a little for the benefit of those who may concern, and to write anything in these days without some reference to the war, would almost entail a man to free lodgings in Fort Lafayette for a year. Therefore I will speak just of Rutland and her connections with the great rebellion.

In the first place, we have no idea that Rutland contains a man, woman or child, who is not impressed with the fact, that we are engaged in a war of giant magnitude and importance, and that upon the loyal people of the North depends the future success of our course. Therefore, under this conviction, Rutland has ever been found at the post of duty.

When "Father Abram" called for 600,000 more men, I did not know but Rutland intended to raise the number called for within her own borders; but, upon examining the returns of the assessor, I found that the number could not be spared without interfering with the great farming interests of our community; therefore, it was thought best, and thus leave a part of the glory to other equally loyal communities. Some sixty men have volunteered under the recent call from the township, a list of which I have obtained from Mr. Branch, who keeps a record of all who have enlisted service from here, and is appended for publication.

While volunteering has been going on, committees appointed for the purpose, have canvassed the township for the collection of a Private Military Bounty Fund. Not having had access to the reports of said committees, I cannot state how much was collected. Suffice it to say, enough was collected to pay the last volunteers a bounty of ten dollars each, and a large surplus remains on hand which is to be used for the benefit of the families of volunteers needing assistance. Let it be recorded that Rutland has nobly responded in men and money, and everything but officers, to the extent of her capacity, for a vigorous prosecution of the war.

In regard to officers, let me state the simple fact, that out of two hundred volunteers, we have had but three commissioned officers in service, one of whom (Lieut. Black) has passed away from life's toils, and strifes, and battles, with the honors of "Shiloh" attached to his name. The other two are Lt. Titus and Lt. Stevens. We have had "many" captains, while our neighbor Scipio has four, at least, and numerous other officers.

We do not complain. Perhaps we have not the material, but we have the men, and they are in the field, scattered from the historic swamps of the Peninsula to the valleys of the Mississippi.—May success attend them, and returning peace restore to them their families and family circles, and future generations rise up and call them blessed.

Another item remains unrecorded—and that embraces a portion of our community whom we of the present generations call blessed, and well should we, when we see the self sacrificing devotion with which they apply their means, and talent, and time, in the labor of love and duty.—The Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society. What associations cluster around the name, what happiness bestowed, what patriotism displayed, what misery and pain alleviated, and Rutland is blessed with one of these associations. I wish I could give the result of their labors, but I cannot. Will not their amiable Secretary do so?

Now what remains untold? Oh! the health of the place; but I will have to refer you to the records of the drafting Commissioner. I am, however, of the opinion that the rural districts are more healthy than your "pent up Cities," and Mr. Editor, would it be presumptuous to conclude, that your own health at this time, is affected by fear of a draft? It looks very suspicious, for you always had a hale, hearty appearance to me; but then appearances are deceitful, so I will not prejudice your case, but hope for your exertion, that the "Pomeroy Telegraph" may continue to enlighten us rustics upon the things pertaining to our future welfare. More anon.

HEADQUARTERS 7th Ohio Battery,
CAMP AT MEMPHIS, TENN.,
Aug. 22d, 1862.

Hon. T. A. Plants, Ed. Telegraph.

DEAR SIR:—Through your columns I wish to announce the fact that I have in my command, nineteen men that ought to be mustered out of the service, and that I need thirty-seven recruits to make the Battery full, when that is done. I also want one Lieutenant to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Lieut. T. F. Carson, who died in the Cincinnati Hospital.

The time for eloquent words has passed, and nothing at home or abroad is left but noble deeds to secure to us and future generations, the enjoyment of civil and religious liberty. I have the only Six Gun Battery in Hulbert's or Sherman's Divisions. All others have been cut down to four. Now, that we are unable to do anything in the way of recruiting here, I ask the people of Meigs and the adjoining Counties in the southern part of Ohio, whether they will allow us to loose all we have thus far done for their credit, by allowing us to loose our identity as a Battery from that part of the State?

We are all very healthy except some slight attacks of diarrhea, and James B. Hysell, who is very low, but seems a little better.

Our camp is in a very healthy locality, as well as that of all the troops located at Memphis.

Hoping soon to hear from you and the full number of recruits we need, I have the honor to be, your obedient and humble servant,

S. A. BURNAP.
